Re: Notary Rules

I assume that the primary aims of the proposed draft rules all deal with suggestions that have come from situations or issues that current Notaries have observed.

I do not have any particular issues with the current Program Rules but would simply encourage the continuation of the requirements that verify and confirm the compliance with rules of identity and documentation that now exist.

I do think the use of the Notary inked stamp rather than the embossed seal was a good change, due to the fact that the embossed seal does not copy well.

Thank you.
