HB19-1266: With the rates of recidivism I can not understand why you would let an ex-convict vote . I understand that they have fulfilled their debt for the crimes that they have done, but 76% are re-arrested within 5yrs. That kind of poor judgement doesn't make for good choices. Maybe a clean 10yr probationary period after prison would make more sense. If a person commits a crime in this society he should lose his rights as well since he chose to live outside of societal rules. Harold Stelley
