Dear Sec. Griswold,

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the draft rule.

While I don't have any specific objection to the proposed changes to the language of the rule, I am skeptical of the adequacy of the security protocols surrounding the use of electronic vote tabulators. Many of these machines are regularly shown to be vulnerable to a range of attacks, which may or may not be detectable even with advanced digital forensics.

As a result, I would like to register my belief that Colorado should move toward eliminating these machines from our elections entirely, in favor of a simpler and more secure system based on requiring hand-marked and hand-counted paper ballots for all counties. I am aware that this suggestion is beyond the scope of the proposed changes to the draft rule.

Kind regards,
Logan Bingham
